

Clyde Moore Dies in War

Word has been received here of the death of Pfc. Clyde K. Moore Jr., son of Clyde Moore, 47 White street, and the late Mrs. Mattie P. Moore.

Pfc. Moore was killed in action in France on July 3, the War Department advised his father.

He enlisted in the Army in 1940 and received his first training in the Panama Canal Zone. From there he went to Puerto Rica, Costa Rica and Colombia.

He was also stationed in Australia and later his unit took part in the New Guinea campaign.

Returning to this country he spent a 20-day furlough at home, then was assigned to Fort Benning for three-months training before being sent to England. He volunteered as a paratrooper.

At the time of his visit home, he was wearing four service ribbons of different varieties, one for prewar service with a star for combat territory, another for overseas duty and a fourth for fighting in the South Pacific area.

CLYDE K. MOORE JR.

D PLUS 27 -- 3 JULY 1944

The Division attacked despite heavy rainfall at 0630 hours after days of waiting, reorganization and preparation. The Division's mission was to attack, seize and secure Hills 131 (195875) and 95 (188855) and the high ground northeast of LA HAYE DU PUITS known as the LA POTERIE RIDGE. Flanked by the 79th Infantry Division on the right and the 90th Infantry Division on the left, the 82d was to be pinched out of the VIII Corps attack and was to assemble and await further orders. The Division attacked according to plan, with the 505th Parachute Infantry on the right, 506th Parachute Infantry in the center and 325th Glider Infantry on the left. The 2d Battalion 507th Parachute Infantry, initially covered a small draw between the 325th and 506th. Stubborn resistance was offered initially by the 265th and 353d German Infantry Divisions reinforced by OST Battalions. The enemy had made good use of the 11 day delay to organize an elaborate defense. However, by aggressive action the Division moved ahead to seize Hill 131 by noon and to secure the eastern edge of the LA POTERIE Ridge, exclusive of the town of LA POTERIE (221857) by dark. Fighting was sharp and severe and enemy defensive positions were heavily mined and booby trapped. Many casualties were inflicted on the enemy. The Forward Division Command Post moved to AUVRAIRIE (209887).

508th Parachute Infantry Regiment

With the 2d Battalion on the right and the 3d Battalion on the left, the regiment attacked at 0630 hours, passing through the 1st Battalion's positions. The high ground between VARENGUEBEC and LA DAUDERIE was secured by 0900 hours, and the 1st Battalion moved into reserve in the vicinity of LA COTELLERIE. The 2d Battalion reached the southern slope of Hill 131 by 1145 hours and was joined by the 3d Battalion by 1600 hours. The regiment moved south at 2000 hours to occupy a zone in the vicinity of BLANCHELANDE, dug in and prepared to attack south towards the LA POTERIE Ridge. Enemy opposition was moderate heavy during the action. Extensive minefields were encountered.
