RECORDS SECTION

507th Parachute Infantry Regiment

One force of 175 men isolated since D-Day on the west bank of the MERDERET River north of FLAUX in the vicinity of 305968 was still intact but suffered from heavy enemy artillery, mortar, and small arms fire. It attempted unsuccessfully to cross the River to the east to rejoin the regiment. Part of the 507th force west of ANFREVILLE succeeded in joining the group east of the town, but another portion of the group, including the regimental commander, was ambushed and taken prisoner. The portion of the 507th east of the MERDERET continued to hold a line between 322945 and 313978, maintaining contact with adjacent regiments.

508th Parachute Infantry Regiment

Attacking with two reinforced companies, the regiment cleared the area on the Division's south flank to include the towns of LE PORT, CARQUEBUT, and ETURVILLE by 1920 hours and established contact with the 101st Airborne Division at Road Junction 363970 north of BLOSVILLE. Resistance was severe, but 160 prisoners were taken. The 2d Battalion on the west bank of the MERDERET River repulsed several sharp enemy tank counterattacks directed at the western causeway to the CHEF DU PONT Bridge. Contact with the regiment on the east bank could not be maintained because of excessive enemy activity and observation.

82d Airborne Division Artillery

The 319th Glider Field Artillery Battalion moved seven 75mm pack howitzers into position east of CHEF DU PONT in support of the 507th and 508th Parachute Infantry Regiments. The 320th Glider Field Artillery Battalion moved eight 105mm M3 howitzers into position west of STE. MERE EGLISE in direct support of the 505th Parachute and 325th Glider Infantry Regiments. The 87th Field Artillery Battalion was relieved of attachment to the Division before it was in position to fire a shot in support of our operations.

Seaborne Echelon

The seaborne echelon, Force "C", began landing at 1500 hours and moved into a bivouac area preparatory to joining the rest of the Division. Troops included the 456th Parachute Field Artillery Battalion, Batteries D, E, and F of the 80th Airborne Anti-Aircraft Battalion, Headquarters Company of the 507th Airborne Engineer Battalion, some attached troops and seaborne elements of units that had arrived by parachute and glider.

D PLUS 3 - 9 JUNE 1944

The Division gained a clear-cut bridgehead over the MERDERET River, relieved two of the three isolated groups and some members of the third, and continued its attack to the northwest in the LE HAM sector.

325th Glider Infantry Regiment

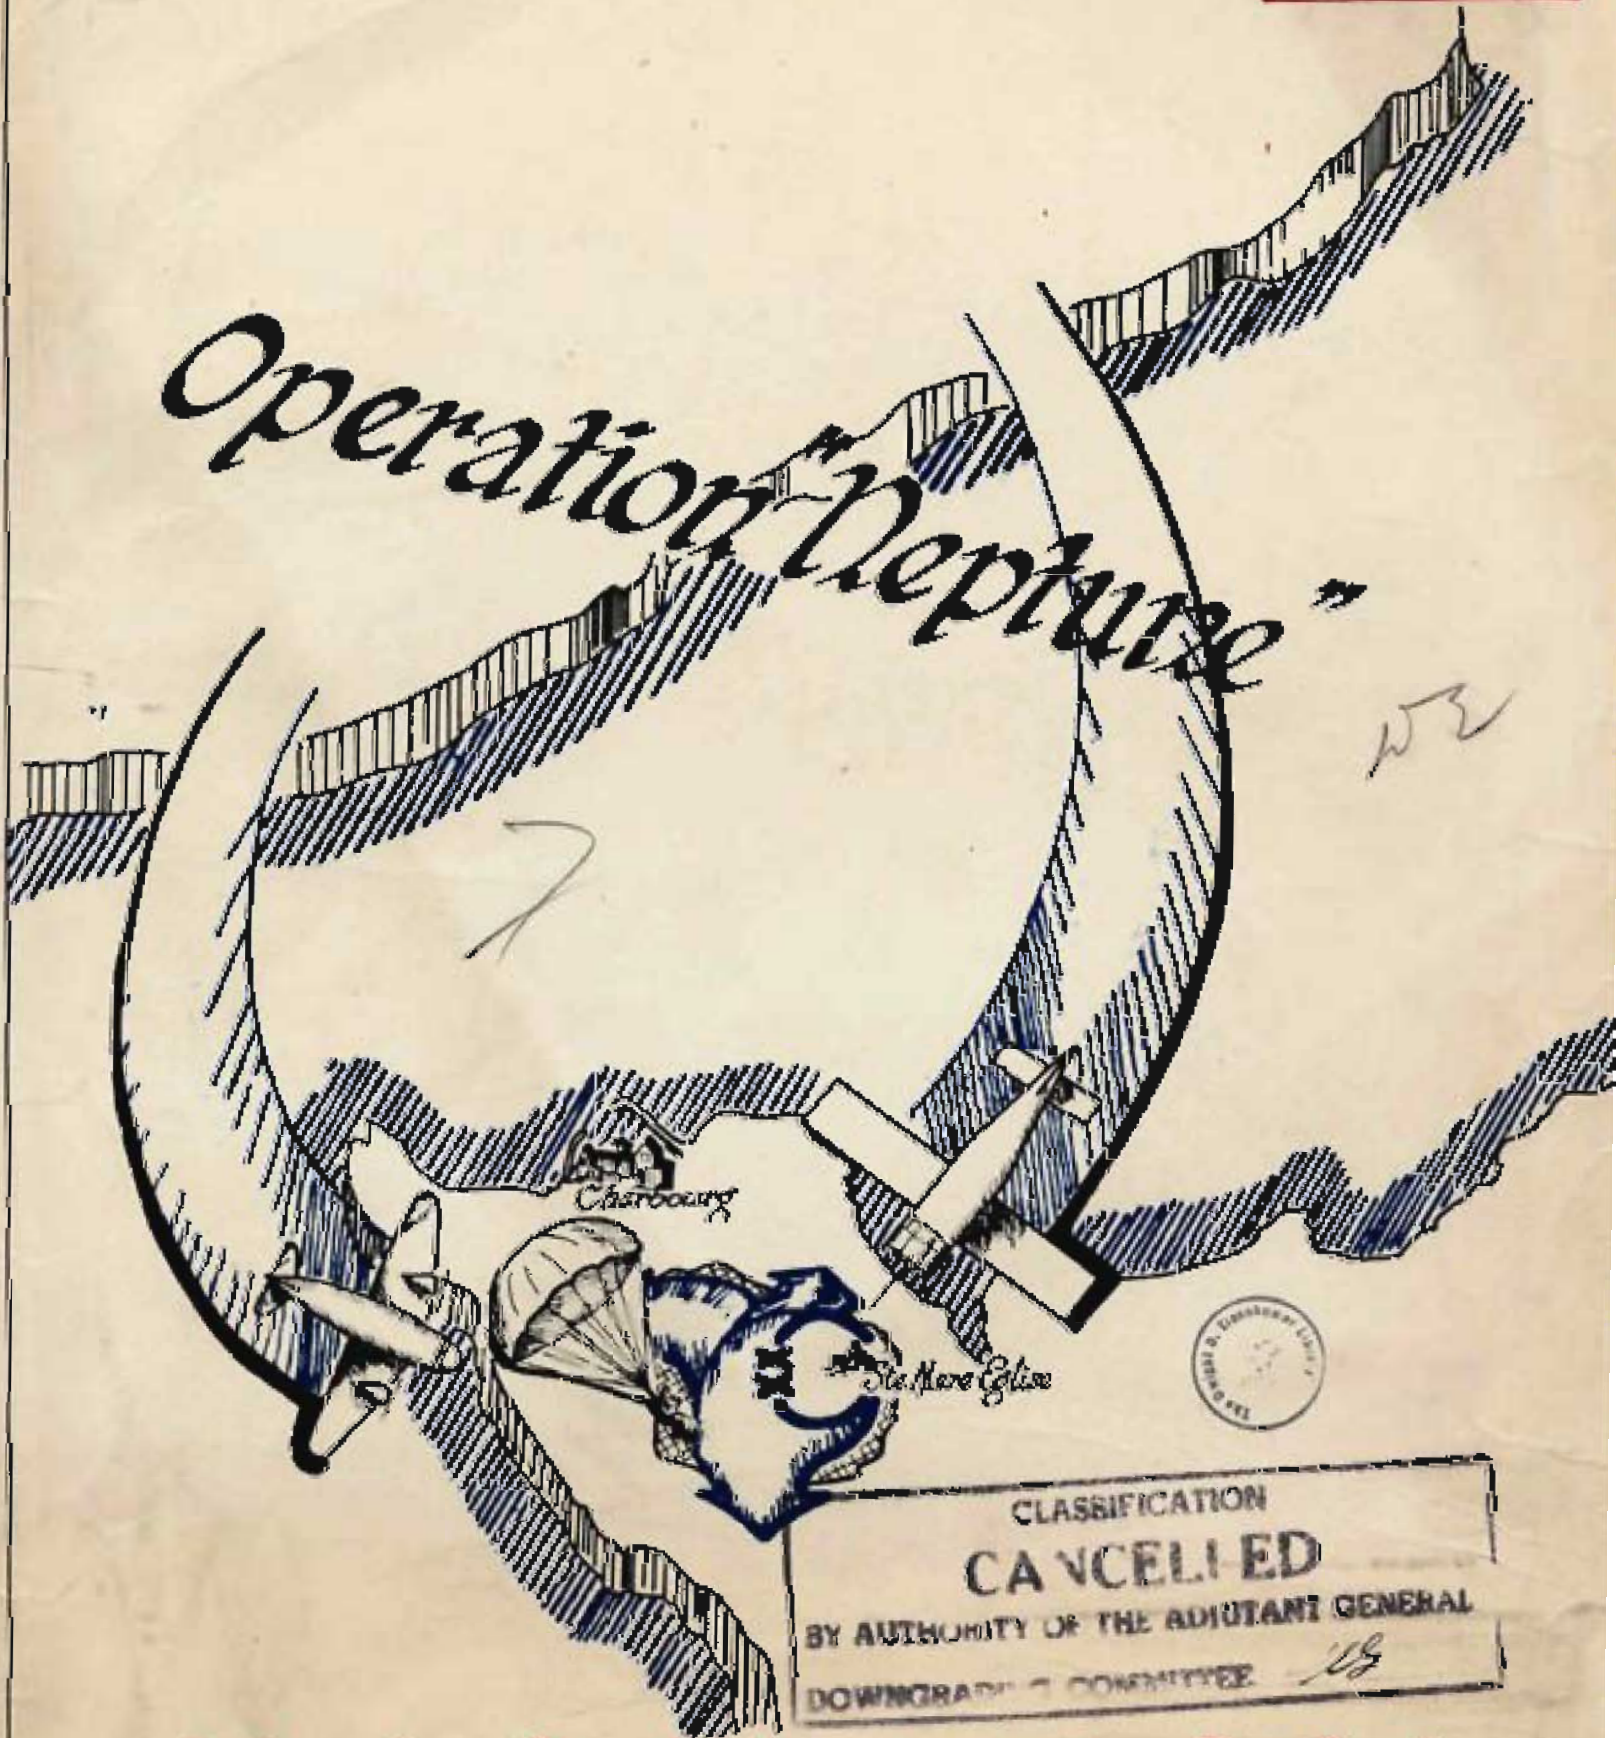

The 1st Battalion continued to press forward to reach the western approaches of the LA FIERRE Bridge but at 0400 hours was pinned down by heavy fire of all types in the vicinity of CANQUIGNY (309959). Following a 15-minute artillery preparation, the 3d Battalion attacked across the LA FIERRE Bridge at 1050 hours with two companies of the 507th Parachute Infantry and supported by Company C, 746th Tank Battalion. A bridgehead was established despite heavy losses. CANQUIGNY was secured by 1530 hours and the 3d Battalion was linked up with the 1st Battalion, 325th, on the left and with the 2d Battalion, 507th on the right. Only a small portion of the group west of ANFREVILLE succeeded in reaching our lines. An enemy counterattack lasting from 1900 to 2100 was repulsed successively by the 3d Battalion and the 507th Parachute Infantry.
